

9. You gavē to PEDTJ, Aswrsrs, the white ani foe-trampling steed which you had received from IsFBRAj loud-neighing (in battle), defying enemies,
high-spirited, the acquirer of a thousand.
treasres₃
-vigorous, and firm in body.
10. Earnestly we call yon, leaders (of the sacrifice), such (as yon have been described), and who" are well-born, lo our succour,— soliciting, Aswnrs, wealth. Contented with our laudations, come to us, with your wealthy car, to bring us felicity.
11. Come to us, auspicious ^ASATTASJ with the fresh velocity of a hawk. Bearing an oblation, I invoke you, ASWINS, at the rising of the ever-constant dawn.

StfETA IV. (CXIX.)

Risjii and deities, the same; the metre Is Jagati.

1. Besiring food, I invoke, (Aswnrs), to-support my life, your wonderful car, swift as thought, drawn by fleet horses, worthy of veneration, many-ban-
nered, bringing rain, containing wealth, abundantly
yielding delight, and conferring riches.
2. Upon its moving, onr minds have been raised on high, in- praise; our hymns reach

(the As WINS).

I sweeten the oblation : the assistants come nigii:

JAUI* (the daughter of the sun,) has ascended,

INS, your car.

3. When devout and unnumbered (men), viet.-

11^ where she is named

VOL. I.